Notes

Among the slaves to make the move to Texas with the Devereux family were Scott and Tabby, a couple who had both been born in Georgia in the late 1700s.

Over time, the Devereux slaveholdings grew to include Scott and Tabby's children, grandchildren, in-laws, nieces, and nephews. John William Devereux expresses in his will that "it is my wish that my twenty-two Negroe slaves (they were one family and children and grandchildren of my Negro woman Tabby) be disposed of in the manner following—that the slaves whose names are Henry, Amey and her three children Charles, Mahala & Sam Mary and her two boys Ham and Anthony Daniel Randal and Scott & Tabby shall descent to [...]."
